

Good job developing your paragraph further. I can totally relate to how you felt and other readers will be able to also. We've all had those moments when we wish we could go back in time and change what we've done. Great!

The first time I road a dirt bike was back when I was 7. It was my birthday I got my first 50cc suzuki dirt bike . The first time you ride a dirt bike is like first learning how to walk it is exciting and you don't want to stop. A couple weeks later I had a bad day on my bike I had my helmet on and could barley hear my surroundings and I did not know my dad had already started the bike and I did not know so I tried to start it and when I did that I shot the engine. I was really upset after that happened because at the time the bike I had ruined was my only bike and I felt really ashamed and mad at myself for the rest of the day. I kept thinking "why did I do that im so stupid".

I am so impressed! You explained what I had asked and now I and other readers will understand the importance of the price.

A few years after that my dad bought me my own honda 70cc brand new for $2,000 which is a lot of money to me when I looked and saw the price I was shocked . That out of all my bikes my honda is my favorite it is the fastest and that bike actually fits me I can ride it and it goes pretty fast. Whenever I go dirt bike riding I bring my dad and cousin with me. My cousin has the same dirt bike as me and my dad has a 650cc 4wheeler made by bombadeir it goes about 80 mph in 3rd gear and he has 7 gears so it goes really fast!

You did a great job expanding on your first and second paragraphs, now try and do the same for this paragraph. You could focus on one event that really sticks out in your memory. What do you do when you ride for hours? How does it feel? Where do you go? To the beach, the hillside (like prairie city in Folsom), the forest?

Now these days I don't go riding like I used to beuase my dad got a job for union pacific railroad so hes not around a lot, but when I do get the chance to ride I use my time wisley and I will ride for hours.

Dear Writer,

First, I want to apologize for my late delivery. There were some technical difficulties, but I was finally was able to contact your teacher who was nice enough to email me your next draft.

Second, I was so happy to read your changes. It made my day when I noticed you applied what I suggested. Good job! Now it is time to expand on your final paragraph. Pay attention to the last note especially. When you are answering my questions as you write, try to be descriptive as possible. Instead of writing "we took our bikes to some trails in the mountains" you could write "we took our bikes to these extremely challenging trails, deep on a steep mountain side". Sometimes what I do is write out the basic information, like my first sentence and then go back and add more descriptive words, like my second sentence.

Again, I am very pleased that you incorporated what I suggested. Keep up the good work. Talk to you soon.

Sincerely,
Your Reader
